

Your call to action!

Everywhere around the world, there are injustices. Not everyone is born equal - there is still homelessness in our community, bullying in our schools and there are people who don't have access to health care. What injustices do you see in your community or in your city? How can you address them?

The goal

It's up to you to create a call to action in the form of a blog, a vlog, or a letter about an injustice that you want to change. You must:

- Do research about your issue
- Give convincing arguments about why your issue should be addressed (with evidence)
- Describe what you will do to help
- Describe what others could do to help
- Identify who (in the government) you need your message to reach

General examples: animals, bullying, natural disasters, discrimination, education, the environment, health, poverty.

The success criteria
