

Your Headlines, Leads and Hooks

It is your turn to become a journalist. Today, however, you will not be reporting facts and events that occurred, but rather, some that you invented based on images that are provided. For each image below, write a headline that will draw attention, a lead that answers the "five W's", and a hook to make sure the reader wants to read on. See the example below.

EXAMPLE

LION ESCAPES FROM ZOO

On Saturday night, a lion walked through the unlocked gates of our local zoo and disappeared into the night. Is this a danger to our community?

Your turn!
